

Consent.

Get it.

No means...

- 'slow down'
- 'persuade me'
- 'keep trying until I give in'
- 'I'm playing hard to get'
- 'it's time to stop'

Being in a relationship doesn't mean you have consent. Make sure your partner is interested and feels comfortable. And know when to stop.

Consent is a clear 'yes'.

Sex without consent is rape.

Consent. Get it.

Think asking for consent might 'ruin the mood'? Having a partner that feels coerced or unsafe is worse. Why not 'set the mood' by asking for consent in your own creative and sexy way? Or simply ask, "Is this okay with you?"

Consent is a clear 'yes'. Sex without consent is rape.

Consent.

Get it.

Rape is caused by...

- wearing provocative clothing
- walking alone at night
- drinking too much
- rapists

Some people think that women who dress or act a certain way are 'asking for it'. Thinking like this is not only wrong, it's dangerous. It's sexist, and it says that rapists are not responsible for their crimes. No one asks to be assaulted or harrassed. Speak out about these sexist beliefs.

PROTECT the PACK

In a 2012 study, 15% of college students admitted being bullied, and 22% reported being cyberbullied, through texts, email and social media.

Respect each other. Respect the pack. Speak out against those who bully, tease or harass. Report it. Talk to a Resident Advisor, or go to the LoboRESPECT Advocacy Center for support. Stopping bullying could save a life.
